The Building Trades Are...

- Highly skilled professions with formal training
- Essential to modern infrastructure
- Driven by innovation
- and pensions

Contact NEIEP:

(800) 228-8220 neiep.org

Learn more about becoming an

What Is an Elevator Constructor?

An elevator constructor is a highly skilled tradesperson who installs, maintains, and repairs elevators, escalators, and other transportation systems.

Earn While You Learn

Start with a paid, four-year apprenticeship that combines hands-on experience with top-tier technical training.

A Pathway to College

This career offers college credit opportunities and real-world experience providing people with a direct path forward no matter

Great Benefits

Union membership includes strong wages, healthcare, retirement, and job security from day one.

A Hands-On Trade

Work that keeps you physically active, mentally sharp, and constantly solving new challenges.

Interesting Work

Choose from a range of career paths-maintenance, inspection, training, or even owning your own business.